"Graced with abundant natural resources and historical significance, Long Island's North Shore is widely recognized as one of the most desirable areas to live in the New York metro region. While a certain amount of development is inevitable, our stewardship of open land and wetlands is critical to help preserve what makes the North Shore a singular place. The North Shore Land Alliance is committed to preserving some of our most important and sensitive natural landscapes," said Ms. Petersen. "The entire Daniel Gale Sotheby's International Realty team is on board with enthusiastic support for the Alliance."

Under Pat Petersen's leadership, Daniel Gale Sotheby's International Realty real estate advisors and management have worked extensively with landowners and developers to preserve tracts of ecologically sensitive and significant land on the North Shore from development. To promote this important fundraiser for the North Shore Land Alliance, Pat Petersen has assembled a team of real estate advisors and marketing specialists from Daniel Gale Sotheby's International Realty to get the word out in traditional media and through its extensive social media presence. Members of that committee include Melissa Stark, Abby Sheeline and Katherine Cirelli from Daniel Gale Sotheby's International Realty's corporate office, Kim Como from its Cold Spring Harbor office, and Margaret Trautmann, Patrick Mackay, and Kathy Zoller from its Locust Valley office.

"The Land Alliance is very grateful to Patricia and her team of professionals," said Lisa Ott, Land Alliance President & CEO. "They have been important partners of the Land Alliance since our beginning and were instrumental in protecting some of our most emblematic open spaces from Wawapek in Cold Spring Harbor to Cushman Woods in Matinecock and the Humes Estate in Mill Neck. It will take all of us working together to maintain the character and environmental quality of this lovely place we are lucky enough to call home."

In addition to her support of the North Shore Land Alliance, Pat Petersen is personally active with many other Long Island organizations. She has been a member of the Board of Directors of Huntington Hospital for more than 10 years and has been a philanthropic supporter of the hospital for more than 3 decades. Pat serves on the Corporate Advisory Board of Cold Spring Harbor Laboratory and actively supports the Heckscher Museum of Art, Caumsett Foundation, Pink Aid, UJA-Federation of New York, Save the Children, Nassau County Museum of Art, and Old Westbury Gardens, among others.
